FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Registration Opens for Virginia Writers Club Fourth Symposium

Charlottesville, Virginia – The Virginia Writers Club (VWC) announced today that registration is now open for the 2014 writers symposium Navigating Your Writing Life: Finding Your Way.

“I am pleased that the Virginia Writers Club is holding its fourth annual symposium this year,” said Betsy Ashton, president. “The symposium has steadily grown in the number of participants and the quality of speakers and panelists. This year’s keynote speaker, Kathryn Erskine, author of Mockingbird, the winner of the 2010 National Book Award, is the latest in a line of award-winning writers head-lining at the event.”

The symposium will be held Saturday, August 2, 2014, at The Dickinson Fine & Performing Arts Center at Piedmont Virginia Community College in Charlottesville. Symposium attendees can attend presentations and panels on a variety of topics such as how to format an i-book, publishing and marketing your work, getting the feedback you need, the crafts of poetry, short story, young adult fiction, mysteries and thrillers, non-fiction, and memoirs and journaling. Lunch is also provided for all attendees.

VWC is offering several registration opportunities to attend the 2014 symposium. There is an early-bird registration discount (only available until June 15th) as well as reduced fees for students, teachers and VWC members. To learn more and register for the symposium visit the VWC website here:
